

Add the -ly Suffix (corrected)
Usually, change nothing & add ly		Words ending in <le> syllable active	active ly	possib le	possib ly just add ly		drop le ending then add ly affordable
accidental		audible
actual		comfortable
aggressive		horrible
amazing		impossible
complete		irreversible
current		miserable
dead		probable
definite
deliberate		Words ending in <y> syllable fortunate		2 or more syllables frequent		easy y	eas ily global		change y to i then add ly immediate		greedy
literal		messy
occasional		sloppy
precise		speedy
quick		temporary
rare
social		Words ending in <ic> syllable proper		automatic	automatic ally sincere		add al before ly soft		basic
sure		heroic
stylish		horrific
thankful		scientific
visual		specific except public - publicly

Notes:

You will find some rare exceptions, ('day/daily', 'full/fully', 'public/publicly', true/truly') but most of the time you can just add -ly so you don't have to worry about doubling an <l> or dropping an <e>.

The common exceptions are these 3 final syllables:

le This is the <le> ending which can be a syllable on its own. Talking about the 'le ending' stops students from trying to make up useless rules about words ending in <e>.

y This is the ending <y> representing the /ee/ sound as in 'greedy' and doesn't affect single syllable words like 'shy'.

ic This applies to multisyllabic words ending <ic> as in 'frantic/frantically' with the important exception of 'public/publicly'.

Activities

- Talk through the grid on page 1, filling in the blanks together or in pairs/groups.
- Make cards to sort into the 4 categories, then have students add -ly accordingly.
- Fill in the grid, adding the ly ending.
- Start with the word complete with -ly and figure out the word that -ly was added onto. Can you go back even further? i.e. accidentally – accidental – accident. This could lead to a discussion about parts of speech. -ly usually changes an adjective to an adverb. Can you take all these words back to their noun? Does the same noun go with both 'horrible' and 'horrific'? Check etymonline.com if you're not sure. Have your students do some word detecting!
- Choose words that suit your students. You don't have to do all the words but, for any activity, make sure there are a greater number of trustworthy words than words that require changes. Students should get used to adding -ly without making changes especially to words like definite, immediate, fortunate, sincere etc which often show up on 'difficult to spell' lists.

As with all TST activities, students are discovering how predictable the language is so they can concentrate on the words that require more memory.

Add -ly putting each word in the correct column
	no change add ly	drop le syllable add ly	change y syllable to i then add ly	after ic syllable add al then ly accidental
active actual affordable
aggressive
audible
basic comfortable
complete
current
dead
definite
deliberate
fortunate
frequent global greedy
heroic
horrible
horrific
immediate impossible irreversible
messy
miserable occasional possible
precise probable
proper
quick
rare
scientific sincere
sloppy
social soft specific speedy stylish
sure temporary visual

Answers
	no change add ly	drop le syllable add ly	change y syllable to i then add ly	after ic syllable add al then ly
accidental	accidentally active	actively
actual	actually
affordable		affordably
aggressive	aggressively
audible		audibly
basic				basically
comfortable		comfortably
complete	completely
current	currently
dead	deadly
definite	definitely
deliberate	deliberately
fortunate	fortunately
frequent	frequently
global	globally
greedy			greedily
heroic				heroically
horrible		horribly
horrific				horrifically
immediate	immediately
impossible		impossibly
irreversible		irreversibly
messy			messily
miserable		miserably
occasional	occasionally
possible		possibly
precise	precisely
probable		probably
proper	properly
quick	quickly
rare	rarely
scientific				scientifically
sincere	sincerely
sloppy			sloppily
social	socially
soft	softly
specific				specifically
speedy			speedily
stylish	stylishly
sure	surely
temporary			temporarily
visual	visually			